MLA Shirley Cripps, Economic Development Minister Larry Shaben, and External Affairs Minister Joe Clark cut through gate.

Politicians attend

Sturdi Wood officially open for business

By Steve Fletcher

The grand opening of Pelican Spruce Mills' Sturdi Wood plant was hailed by federal, provincial and local politicians as a giant leap forward economically.

Invited guests to last Friday's opening watched as Alberta Economic Development Minister Larry Shaben, Yellowhead MP and External Affairs Minister Joe Clark, and local MLA Shirley Cripps cut through a strand board gate with a chainsaw to officially proclaim the new mill open for business.

Prior to this, each politician, standing on a podium built from Sturdi Wood, praised the plant as a financial boost to the area and commended mill owner Al Owen for exhibiting the initiative and drive required to erect the plant during the economic downturn.

"This is the most important event in Drayton Valley since the discovery of oil in 1955," said Cripps.

Clark described the mill as an example of someone taking advantage of the many opportunities that exist throughout the country.

The mill is something that will "make the country and the province proud," he added.

Shaben called Al Owen a "true Alberta entrepreneur" who should be congratulated for having the confidence to explore new markets, both in Canada and overseas.

He said the owner is a pioneer "in the world in the use of aspen," and it's this pioneering spirit that has created jobs and helped diversify the economy.

Mayhew commented that Pelican Spruce Mills will be beneficial to the town, and he thanked Owen for bringing his business to Drayton Valley.

The official opening was followed by private tours of the strand board plant and the uncompleted sawmill. A banquet was held later in Edmonton.

Pollution complaints

Mill dust not a health hazard, official says

The fly ash and dust that comes from the Sturdi Wood mill is not a health hazard, a plant official says.

Indeed, what little ash that does emit from the stack is considered good fertilizer, said Bob Olson, manager of the plant.

Olson, who lives near Sturdi Wood, says the dust consists of a small amount of wood fibre and ash. Often mistaken for smoke, the "great, white plume" that occasionally billows from the plant is merely water vapor.

He added that Alberta Environment has been at the site on four different occasions to scrutinize the mill and to get an understanding of the situation following the registering of complaints.

The emittance of dust has been reduced greatly since the mill began full operation, Olson noted. "And it's going to get better and better all the time."

Noise emanating from the plant, however, is something "that's going to be experienced on an on-going basis.

"This is a 24 hours a day, seven days a week operation. It has to be to remain viable," Olsen said.

Meanwhile, James Dryden continues to be unconvinced.

Dryden said his "phone has been ringing of the hook" since last week's story in the paper.

He remains adamant that something must be done to prevent the fly ash and dust, which he maintains is a pollution problem.

In one day last week, 80 phone calls were received supporting his position, Dryden said. He and others are considering setting up a petition.

But others feel the fly ash problem is greatly outweighed by the economic benefits of the mill's location.

Town Councillor Howard Olsen, who also lives near the plant, says he's not bothered by the dust.

He said the property now occupied by Sturdi Wood would have cost local taxpayers approximately $1,250,000 in 1990 as a vacant lot.

"There are many, many businesses in Drayton Valley today that wouldn't be here if it weren't for the mill."

Several calls to Alberta Environment last week to inquire about its investigations, were not returned.

Eight written complaints

Town monitoring calls

Deputy Mayor Tom McGee says the town has received eight written complaints about the mill dust, ash and noises. And, they are monitoring the phone calls.

However, he doesn't see the town being in a position to take a stand. McGee feels that should be left up to the environment people.

Consumer survey

A door-to-door consumer survey is planned for the months of July and August in Drayton Valley.

The survey being coordinated by the chamber's economic development committee will be designed to determine the dollar amount of goods and services which are purchased by the residential and small business communities in town and surrounding area. The survey will also try to determine the amount of goods and services which are purchased in Drayton Valley as opposed to other centres such as Edmonton.

Finally, the survey, to be carried out by two STEP students, will attempt to determine why consumers purchase goods and services outside the town.

The committee plans to survey 1,000 households and 250 small businesses in the area.

The results of the survey will be published and the chamber is planning a campaign in the new year to promote local purchases supported by awareness seminars for consumers and businesses alike.

Pembina Consortium holds grad ceremony

By Steve Fletcher

Don't be afraid to dream, and don't be afraid to make mistakes en route to the dream.

This was the message presented to graduates of the Pembina Educational Consortium by former mayor Nevis LaBranche.

Speaking at the consortium's second annual year-end ceremonies, LaBranche said those who are afraid to make mistakes rarely succeed.

She cited as an example the fact that Henry Ford, in designing his first cars, forgot to include a reverse gear.

"Set clear goals and make plans to accomplish those goals," said the former member of the consortium's board. "Visualize goals and write them down."

Personal experience has led her to believe in the value of planning, noted Labranche, who explained the simple task of learning to drive a car took her "10 years when, with planning, it could have taken only months."

Finally, Labranche warned: "Do not discuss your goals with negative people, they'll only discourage you."

Graduates of the Adult Upgrading program are: Blain Anderson, Robert Bayley, Dawn Benjamin, Floyd Benjamin, Sharon Boyd, Dave Butcher, Wes Cass, Fred Davidson, Owen Davidson, Lorraine Fulks, Lori Goldade, J.L. Gerber, Margaret Kane, Neil Kidner, Brenda Konash, Robin Lysell, Dorothy Mellings, Alder Nielson, Fawn Severeid, Ron Smith, Signe Smith, Dianna Thomas, Coreen Town.

Graduates of the Management Studies Certificate program are: Judy Draper, Wanda Primeau, and Bonita Welch.

Graduates of the Clerk-Typist program are: Susan Everett, Kim Gregor, Tennie Gylander, Vickie Hutchinson, Debbie Johnson, Theresa Labossiere, LouAnn Linfield, Joyce McGinn, Debbie Nelson, Kathleen Ward, and Sharon Weiting.

Students in the Nursing Assistant Program, who will graduate in July following the conclusion of their clinical, include: Laurie Benefield, Linda Biasner, Carol Clemmer, Darthy Engelman, Sharon Hoffman, Delores Powell, Kathleen Stewart, Rosella Tuttle, and Jean Woloszyn.

Also on hand at the ceremonies were Howard Olsen, representing the town; Dr. Michael Andrews of the Alberta Vocational Institute; Dennis Larratt with Grant MacEwen Community College; and Stuart Ross, representing the Westerra Institute of Technology.

Joe MacLellan, executive director of the consortium, acted as master of ceremonies.

Opinions

Secrecy should stop

Not facing facts makes issue worse

All the secrecy concerning activities at the new strand board plant have to stop.

The people, most of them complaining about employment, dust, ashes and the noise factor, should be made aware of the situation.

Secrecy surrounding the mill dates right back to Oct. 4, 1985.

The paper found out about the sod turning about five minutes before it actually happened. And, since that time, getting information on such things as construction, expansion and production has been almost impossible.

This is basically an oil and gas area. Forestry is the new kid on the block. The people should be made aware of what's happening.

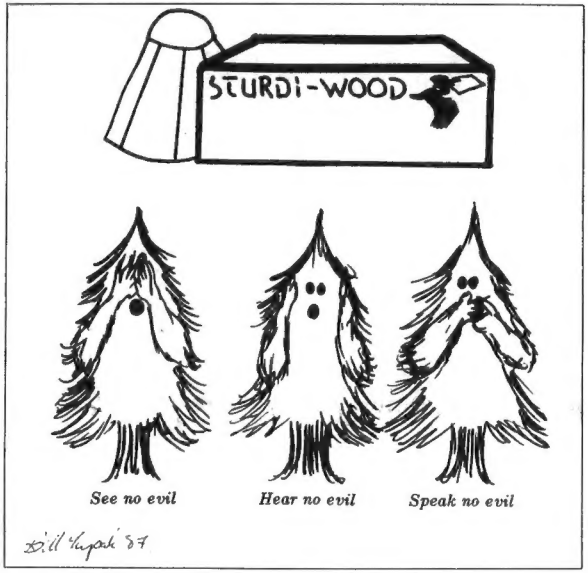
The fault for not keeping the public and the local media informed, is not entirely the mill's fault.

The town and Alberta Environment, who have been fielding most of the complaints about the dust, ashes and the noise, should be making a statement. Not facing the facts will only make it worse.

MLA Shirley Cripps may have said it best, at the sod turning, when she said, "The arrival of Sturdi Wood is the biggest thing for Drayton Valley since 1953 when oil was discovered."

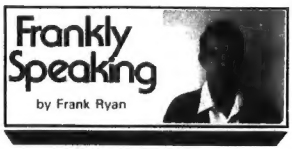
The community and the area is thankful Al Owen decided to bring his mill here. It's been a big boost to the economy.

And, while there will always be complaints, people for the most part are glad to have the mill here, even if it's in their back yard.



Thank you

Coverage not possible without help...



For the past year we have been publishing a SCHOOL NOTEBOOK.

Of all the weekly newspapers in this province, we are the only paper I am aware of, that gives so much coverage to school happenings. That's not a complaint. Just a FACT.

While Bill Lysak, a work experience student from Frank Maddock High handled most of the calls on our behalf this past term, there are a lot of people who assisted. Without the time they gave behind the scenes, gathering the material and corresponding with us every week, the coverage wouldn't have been possible.

Our sincere thanks to principal Howard Pearson at Eldorado, principal Elson Keown and vice-principal Chris Kelly at Elementary B, principal Colin Cavanagh, retiring vice-principal Tom Hutton and Dennis Harris at H.W. Pickup, counsellor Jim Wolff at Frank Maddock High, principal Ron Williams at St. Anthony's, Donna Brown at Breton Elementary, Jim Musson at Breton High, Carl McColl at Lindale and Thain Olsen at Tomahawk.

And, all the secretaries who took our calls and forwarded on the messages.

Without you people, the SCHOOL NOTEBOOK and all those related stories wouldn't have happened.

******

The end of the school year also sees the end of another edition of the FMHS Mad-Duck Press, their monthly newspaper.

The students who worked on the paper are to be commended for sticking with it, although it did get frustrating.

And, my personal thanks to DONNA HANSON and KELLY STONE, employees at The Western Review, who gave up a lot of their own time, without pay, to assist the students.

Hopefully we'll see the Mad-Duck Press roll off the presses next year. But, more people will be needed.

******

To everyone who assisted us during the past school year...THANKS.

Smell of wood and mill dust not so bad

Letters

Dear Editor,

I would like to comment on an article in last week's paper in regards to the mill dust and all the happy people who are so concerned about it.

It seems that some people have nothing better to do, so they complain about any new development or just anything in general, good or bad, it doesn't seem to matter. I wonder what these happy people would do if it was the smell of a rapeseed plant, or a refinery, or a pulp mill that was drifting through town instead of the natural or near-natural smell of wood. I also wonder if any of these happy people smoke.

I feel very thankful indeed that the town and Mr. Owen were able to agree, and decided to build in Drayton Valley. So, if all we have to put up with is a wood smell and some ash and dust in comparison with the economic benefits the mill has brought, then I really can't see what we have to complain or petition about.

So, for those happy people: if there are no pollutants in the air, and they can't reduce the ash and dust any further and the noise level is within ERCB guidelines, well now what are your going to do? Maybe you could gather those happy people together and dismantle the mill and move to where you would like it to be or just maybe you'll have to move far, far away.

Or maybe the impossible may happen and we'll all learn to live with it and accept it as it is. Good luck.

Thank you,
Mr. T. Bashaw

Local says ID road upkeep neglected

Dear Editor,

On April 1 of this year the ID took control over the Elk River Road. This particular road was maintained by a private oil company up until then.

The road, heavily travelled by numerous oil and gas companies, service companies, sulphur haulers, loggers, trappers, hunters, campers, etc. was maintained in such a fashion to provide the safest means for those people to travel to and from their place of employment.

For example, during a dry spell water was sprayed onto the road to keep the dust down, gravel was hauled to fill in the holes that occurred when heavy traffic pounded the road out, and a grader was hired on a daily basis to insure quality road conditions. Last week there was a rear-end collision, due in part to the dust and a truck knocked his axle right out from under his vehicle because of a soft spot that couldn't be seen.

The ID couldn't see fit to afford the gravel to fill in the hole, but to be fair, they did grade the road after being prompted, but just to grade and mask over the soft spots creates an even bigger danger.

The provincial government took a traffic count on the road before the logs from the Elk River area were hauled into Drayton Valley. I am not aware of the numbers the province came up with but I do know that on any given day the amount of people out there number in the hundreds.

When one considers how many dollars have been derived from that area in the form of royalties from oil and gas, hunting and fishing, trapping, forestry, sulphur, income tax from the wages from the men and women who work there and municipal taxes on the installations, you'd think that someone, somewhere at all three levels of government would care enough about its people to put something back into the area — namely a road!

I get more than a little rankled when I see the Town of Drayton Valley already salivating over revenues they want the proposed new county to fork over towards the cost-sharing of their edifice. I hereby solemnly swear that I shall never drop any mud on your streets providing the town will see fit to allow county residents to receive properly gravelled roads before their ivory towers are built.

Yours truly,
Joan Procink

Waiting for response...

Drayton Valley's request for membership in the Battle River Tourist Association may mean a longer wait than most anticipated.

The town's acceptance into Battle River hinges on the blessings of the Evergreen Tourist Association — the Zone 7 organization that used to include Drayton Valley.

Chamber secretary Karen Kirkwood said Battle River, whose boundaries begin just across the North Saskatchewan bridge, won't agree to the town's membership until Evergreen gives its okay.

Kirkwood said the reasons for the switch in tourist associations include the fact the Battle River group is geographically-aligned much closer to promoting tourism along Highway 22.

Membership in the organization is also advantageous as it costs only 15 cents per capita, added Kirkwood.

In comparison, Evergreen has recently upped its fees from 20 cents to $1 per capita.

"The ball's in their court," said Rod Schultz, the chamber's tourism committee chairman. "Battle River is waiting for a response (from Evergreen) to its request."

But, according to one Evergreen official, Drayton Valley shouldn't be holding its breath.

Ivan Strang, a vice-president on Evergreen's board, says his organization doesn't have the authority to grant the town its wish.

Drayton Valley falls within the Evergreen's jurisdiction and that's all there is to it, Strang said. The zone system is a provincial government creation.

Defending the increase in membership fees, Strang said, "It's what you put into it that matters. The fastest growing industry is tourism."

Strang said regular discussions are continuing between the town and Drayton Valley, and he's optimistic Drayton Valley will eventually return to Evergreen's fold.

Major changes in new bylaw

Town council pushed their new recreation bylaw through last Thursday.

Originally, the bylaw was scheduled for second reading. However, council decided to give third and final reading.

Prior to the final reading Deputy Mayor Tom McGee said, "It's time to continue on. It's been studied to death."

The new bylaw includes some major changes.

The recreation board chairman will be a council appointee instead of someone from the community at large. Appointed members may serve any number of terms.

The recreation board will hear only those delegations which have been referred by council and, both the public and the press will not be allowed to attend board meetings.

Both second and third readings received unanimous support of council, although Mayor Maybew and Councillor Charlie Miner were absent.

Councillor Alex Saifi didn't like the idea of delegations coming before council and Jean Saunders said he had some thoughts about the chairmanship issue and making the meetings private.

The Fairway

Imperial Oil has donated $15,000 to the Swan Hills club. The money will go toward seeding operations on their new driving range as well as a parking lot.

In its original conception, the Swan Hills course would have been a full recreational facility with 18 holes and a $3 million price tag. Economic realities have seen the project pared down to a modest nine-hole course that will incorporate artificial greens. The cost of the revised project will be closer to $600,000.

The Swan Hills driving range is expected to be open next month and work is expected to start next year on the course.

Mudfling a gritty, dirty affair

By Steve Fletcher

The Barefoot Flats' mudfling tournament, held last weekend near Alder Flats, was a successfully dirty affair, says co-organizer Laura Haggart.

The two-day competition drew large crowds of spectators, who watched seven divisions of 4X4s challenge each other for mudflinging supremacy.

George Allen of Edmonton took the big prize with a win in the super modified division.

The mudfling is a yearly event that may become twice-yearly if enough interest is shown in the idea, says co-organizer Ed Haggart.

The mudfling was sanctioned by the Alberta Mud-Bog Association.

The weekend was capped with a wild foot race across the mud-caked track.

Roughly 37 souped-up trucks participated in the event.

Blair Shimbashi wins trophies...

Play-off

Shimbashi victorious

By Steve Fletcher

Blair Shimbashi walked away with most of the hardware from Saturday's 10th annual junior golf open, but he needed a play-off to do it.

Shimbashi beat out Doug Cabel to take the low gross, both overall and in the champion flight.

With scores of 37 and 42 in the two rounds of golf, Shimbashi won the tournament with a total gross of 79.

With 71 players, this year's tournament was represented with a "good turnout," said golf pro Howard Vickers. "The kids are basically handling the course really well.

"There's been good golfing at all levels."

Vickers added that a brief, mid-day downpour "dampened the kids, but not their spirits."

Final results were as follows: Kevin Sandquist won the first flight ahead of Leroy Benson. Guy Mastre finished first in the second flight with Shane Freeson taking the runner-up spot. Third flight honors went to Chris Bullock with Jason Makinowich second. In the fourth flight, Jason Woods was first followed by Daylen Pfanmeuller.

In the fifth flight – Steven Street was first followed by Robbie Newman. Desi Parenteau won the sixth flight ahead of Scott Swendseid. Seventh flight honors went to Sheldon Wilson with Scott Wilson, second and in the eighth flight – Kim Mastre was first with Tammy Kurd, second.

Minor ball teams have successful weekend

Drayton Valley minor ball teams did well at last weekend's tournament in Fort Saskatchewan.

The bantams, the Eron Oilers, won their first two games before losing the last game by one run, 8-7 to Sherwood Park.

The bantams had beaten Spruce Grove 7-6 and Fort Saskatchewan 14-2 prior to that.

The beavers, known as the IDA Oilers, also lost their last game to Gibbons by one run, 6-5.

Earlier in the tournament, the beavers had managed wins over Athabasca 9-8, and St. Albert 9-7.

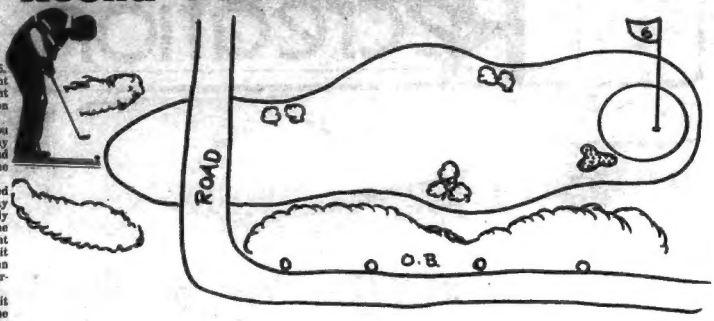
The bantams took third place overall at the weekend sports event.

The mosquitoes had a tougher time than the other teams at the tourney, winning one and losing two games.

The teams were all taking part in Fort. Saskatchewan's annual Canada Day tournament.

'Play a Round' with Howard

By Howard Vickers, Pro
Drayton Valley Golf Course



Play A Round

Hole 6: 523 yards, par 5.

Number 6 is an excellent par 5 with trees both right and left and out of bounds on the right.

With two good shots you can reach the green but any stray shot will probably find you chipping back onto the fairway.

A few trees are located on the edge of the fairway and make the hole slightly narrower in places. The lone sand trap guards the right side of the green and makes it wise to approach the green from the left side of the fairway.

Rules Note: If you hit your ball out of bounds on the right you must play another ball from the same spot taking a stroke and distance penalty.

Olympic Info line open

Did you ever wonder who gave Calgary's Olympic mascots, Hidy and Howdy, their names?

Or just what OCO'88 stands for? Do you want to know which Olympic events still have tickets available? Or where Uncle Semour and Aunt Gert can stay when they visit Calgary next February?

The answers are as close as your telephone.

In early May OCO'88 opened an Olympic hotline to answer all those questions you've had about the Olympics, but didn't know who to ask.

The number to call is (403) 277-888. The hotline, dubbed Olympic Info, right now is in operation from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday to Friday. Volunteers, working two shifts, are handling between 60 and 70 calls a day on four phones, and that's expected to increase dramatically as the Games draw nearer.

Eventually there'll be 16 phones, with up to 120 volunteers working three shifts — from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The service was introduced to relieve pressure on the OCO'88 administrative number (403 262-1988). It was being used so heavily, callers were having trouble getting through. The new information line means fewer busy signals, and happier customers.

While the majority of calls to date have come from Calgary and district, there have been some from as far afield as Los Angeles and New York.

But regardless of where the questions come from, if they have to do with the Olympics, the volunteer information staff has the answers. By each phone is a fat ring binder stuffed with information about all things Olympic — the history of the Games, Olympic sports, the city of Calgary, the Olympic venues — and a long list of phone numbers.

If the answer you're looking for isn't in the binder, the info line volunteers know where to find it. They'll track it down and call you back.

And that's a promise.

The community library, situated at the Tomahawk school, celebrated 30 years of service to the area last week.

Tomahawk Library celebrates 30 years

By Steve Fletcher

Tomahawk's community library celebrated its 30th anniversary last week, an anniversary that probably wouldn't have occurred without the hard work of local residents.

Elma Schadeck, a founding member of the library, described the past three decades as a "slow, steady progress" that ran mainly on the steam of its volunteers.

She remembers the extensive fund-raising that was needed to obtain a matching $350 government grant.

The library was set up in June, 1957 in a "little cubbyhole" in the basement of the Tomahawk school, Schadeck said.

Since then, the library has shifted its location in the school three or four times and now has the capacity to handle roughly 6,500 books.

A paid librarian is also now on hand to coordinate and streamline the library's organization.

Joining the Yellowhead Regional Library system has also meant a great deal to the library, with easy access now available to the latest books.

Tomahawk school celebrated the anniversary with a massive balloon release. Each balloon had a student's or teacher's name on it.

Lynn Davis of the Drayton Valley Pipe Band was on hand to play the bagpipes.

Breton Lumberjack Days

Local residents will be busy on July 1

Although tomorrow (Wednesday) is a holiday, local and area residents will be busy.

Canada Day events are scheduled for several locations.

The County of Parkland is sponsoring a 'Hike Through The Trails' from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the Pembina Nordic ski trails.

A two- to three-mile hike has been arranged with a stop for lunch between noon and 1 p.m. Take the whole family and a light lunch for a walk down and around the trail system.

The trails are located east of the airport. Watch for the signs. For more information call 542-4632.

Breton Lumberjack Days wrap up Wednesday. Also in Breton, the Agricultural Society Fair is being held in the high school from 1 to 4 p.m.

At Tomahawk, a parade will be held at 11 a.m. followed by games, bingo, a goat show and a supper (5 to 7 p.m.) as part of the annual sports day activities.

And, at Entwistle, they are saluting the farmer with their annual Canada Day activities. These include a parade at 11 a.m. along with games in the afternoon and bingo in the Elks Hall from noon to 4 p.m. in the Elks Hall.

Library has more members

The Drayton Valley library's membership is rising steadily says town Councillor Jean Saunders.

Saunders, a member of the library's board, told town council last week she is enjoying working with a "strong, capable" board that has seen recent growth in both the library's circulation and use.

As of late 1986, a total of 1,538 paid memberships were listed, and that "rise has continued," Saunders said.

The introduction of cassette tapes has helped to attract younger people to the library, she added.

Saunders also said the library is producing a needs assessment, which despite space restraints, has come up with "a number of interesting ideas."

Al Owen disagrees

Al Owen doesn't expect to see 34th Avenue extended to hook up with 50th Street.

The Sturdi Wood strandboard plant owner is concerned about the traffic in town such a move would cause. He estimates that 40,000 loads will leave the mill per year.

Besides, if 34th Ave., which currently leads into the mill off Highway 22 was extended to tie in with 50th St. the town would be looking at a major expense. Owen estimates a 25- to 30-foot bridge would be needed to cross a creek east of the sawmill.

Lisa Vowk, 14, and Wes Litke, 16, fought their way through the zone, county and regional track meets to win a spot on the Zone 5 team for the Summer Games to be held August 5-8 in the County of Strathcona.

Vowk will compete in both long jump and javelin while Litke participates in javelin.

Big week

Drayton Valley Oilers move into first-place tie

By Frank Ryan

It was a big week for the Drayton Valley Oilers.

The Oilfield Baseball League Oilers won two games as they moved into a first-place tie with the Easyford Colts.

The Oilers invaded the Colts' own den last Tuesday, and a run in the top of the ninth, gave them a 7-6 win.

Alton Baird went the distance on the mound for the [redacted].

Last Thursday, the Oiler bats pounded out 22 hits as they dumped the Breton Royals 25-4.

The Colts kept pace with a 20-3 win over the Warburg Rams on Thursday. On Tuesday of last week the Royals defeated Warburg 16-11.

The standings have both the Oilers and Colts tied for top spot with identical 6-2 win/loss records while the Royals are 3-5 and the Rams have one win in eight outings.

First baseman Fred Martin led the Oiler bats in their assault against the Royals with two home runs and two singles. Joey Hutzel, Frank Swap and Fulton Smyl all chipped in with three hits each.

Chad Allen, who worked the first five innings before leaving for Don Zimmer got the win as they limited Breton to six hits.

The Oilers had two big innings — a seven run outburst in the third to give them a 13-3 lead and added eight more runs in the eighth inning.

Jock Hutchinson hit two home runs in the Colts' win over Warburg.

This Saturday and Sunday, the Colts will host their eight-team tournament. Action starts at 8 a.m. both days with the final game at 6 p.m. Sunday evening. The Colts diamond is located at Easyford Park.

Standards for libraries

Libraries at all schools in the County of Parkland have now been brought up to minimum standards.

"We're on pretty solid footing," Denele Walsh, supervisor of curriculum reported to a recent trustees meeting.

Alberta Education supplied the county a one-time learning resources grant of $97,530 during the 1985-86 school year. Most of the money has now been spent on approved library resources.

DON'T UNDERESTIMATE BUYER

I'm sure you've heard it said: "Why should I sell my house through a Realtor? I can sell it myself and pocket the commission Right? Wrong! This kind of thinking can easily turn out to be financial folly.

Never underestimate the hard financial bargaining ability of the average buyer. Spend one day in the field with any Realtor, negotiating and handling offers and counter-offers and you'll appreciate what I'm saying. Frankly, if the typical buyer knows you are not selling through a Realtor, right off the bat he'll expect you to deduct the commission for HIS benefit before you even START serious negotiations.

Then you're on your own, possibly at a great disadvantage, in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating, and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-it yourself pit falls. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to list it with a Realtor. He'll sell it for you - without hitches, for the best price and in the shortest amount of time.

Kelly's shoes hard to fill next year

The Drayton Valley Minor Soccer Association will have a big hole to fill next season.

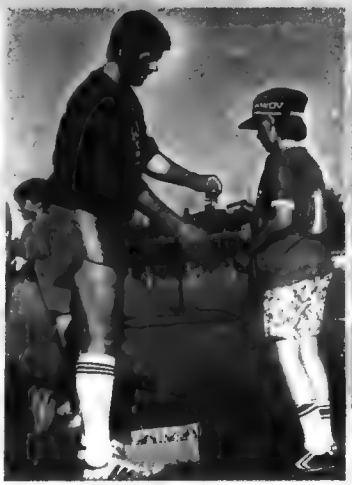
After nine years Simon Kelly, the association's current president, says he won't be returning next year. Business pressure are the reasons behind his decision.

In his nine years with minor soccer, he has seen the numbers jump from 56 kids to 186 this summer.

Besides finding a new president, Kelly says another concern is more playing fields. Due to a shortage of fields, up to three games were played across the widths of a field instead of length-ways.

Kelly is hoping the new field south of the Frank Maddock high school will be ready and another possibility, in games every night of the week. A decision on that will be made later.

The curtain fell on the '87 season last Thursday night. Following the games, trophies were presented to every participant and they were treated to hog dogs and pop.



Simon Kelly, left, presents trophies to all the players following last Thursday's games. And, soccer coach Bill Boos, right, was busy handing out the mustard and ketchup for the hot dogs.

Quiet hours

Rowing sport offers serenity

By Alan Hobson

If you rise early in the quiet calm of a summer's dawn you will see them.

Like so many water spiders, they will move along with only the gentle ripple of their wooden legs sending sweeping furrows across the water. As the mist hangs eerily around them, they will move slowly away from the dock and in seconds disappear.

All will be still. The only thing that will break the silence will be the echoing voice bellowing out stroke rates and encouragement. But as they move away, even that too will soon be lost.

This is the juxtaposition that is rowing — the serenity of the quiet, early morning hours combined with the herculean effort and fierce discipline needed to exert will over water.

But when it is done well, rowing brings with it the elation of fluid movement and the ecstasy of flight.

Three years ago this summer, eight of the biggest and strongest men this country has ever put in the rowing shell experienced the ultimate ecstasy. They blasted off the start in Los Angeles and thrilled the world by capturing the gold medal in the men's heavy eights competition at the 1984 Summer Olympic Games. It was a moment all of them will remember for the rest of their lives.

And all of them will also remember where they got their starts — at tiny rowing clubs coast to coast, in small towns many of us have never even heard of. And they'll remember too their very first races.

This summer in the County of Strathcona, a new breed of future rowers may enter their first races Aug. 5-8 during the 1987 Alberta Summer Games. But what they'll be doing will have more to do with fun and fellowship than with competition. That fun will take place in the fours, doubles and singles events and there will be a maximum of 80 competitors from every corner of the province. Crews will be selected from rowing camps held in the eight zones established by the Alberta Sport Council across the province.

And while that's going on, there will also be activity in another form of self-propelled excitement — flat water canoeing and kayaking. There will be sprint, voyageur war canoe, slalom and marathon events.

Middle age, says President Ronald Reagan, is when you're faced with two temptations and you choose the one that gets you home by nine o'clock.

"We are taking 10 beds out of service so we can provide staff with vacation time without the cost of replacements," he explained.

The operating room will be closed to elective procedures for four weeks.

"We won't book any elective surgery but, operating staff will be on call for emergencies," he said.

These shutdowns will enable technical staff, support staff and nurses to book off for holidays, he said adding, "it's one way of trying to balance our budget as well."

Seat belt crack-down by RCMP

The RCMP expect to take no prisoners (metaphorically speaking) when the Alberta seatbelt law comes into effect tomorrow (July 1).

Cpl. Tom Turner said the Drayton Valley detachment has received no word about a probationary period, and so as far as he's concerned none will be given.

He also expects some initial hassle from motorists.

"I suppose there will be a few who are disgruntled with the new law. And I know some (RCMP members) here will use their discretion (when handing out the fines)."

Turner pointed out the seatbelt law also stipulates that children under the age of six or less than 18 kilograms must be strapped into a legally-proscribed children's seat.

The onus is placed on the driver of the motor vehicle to ensure that all occupants between the ages of six and 15 are strapped in.

The only exemptions from the law are delivery trucks travelling less than 40 kilometres an hour, taxi drivers with fares, and those with medical reasons for not buckling up.

Alex not smiling

There was a lot of red faces around the town office on Monday, June 15.

Recreation director Paul Neilsen admits staff did cut down a resident's tree by mistake.

Neilsen says the town received a complaint that a tree was blocking the alley way.

However, whoever took the call, understood the tree was on the complainant's property. The town found out later, it wasn't.

The irony of the incident, although he doesn't see the humor at all, is the fact that the tree was in the back driveway of Councillor Alex Salfe's residence.

As town staff sawed the tree down, Salfi's wife was on the phone to her husband, trying to find out why the tree was being levelled. He finally found out there had been a mistake.

Councillor Salfi isn't sure how the town will replace the 15-year-old tree.

The remains

This was the scene last week at the Easyford Hall. The hall is being dismantled and will be replaced by a new building several miles up the road.

Major swabbing

No more dirty water

Complaints about dirty water may soon be just a memory.

The town plans a major swabbing of its distribution mains and a complete cleaning of the water system is slated for 1988.

But a small section of the system is planned for this year so officials can adequately assess the cost of the entire program.

Town Councillor Howard Olsen said the water mains haven't been cleaned for a number of years because "we didn't have enough water to do it."

He told last week's council meeting the new reservoir and the upgrading of the water treatment plant now make such a cleaning possible.

It is estimated the cleaning process will require roughly 200,000 gallons of water a day, depending on the condition of the water mains.

The town has received several complaints about dirty water. The problem is worsened whenever fire hydants are used, as they disturb the water system. Heavy water users have also complained about silt in their water.

Street lights overhauled

By Steve Fletcher

Town council has decided that a major overhaul of Drayton Valley's street lights is in order.

TransAlta Utilities has produced a plan for the town which would see existing mercury vapor street lights converted to high pressure sodium lights.

Costs of the conversion will be shared equally by the town and the utility company.

The sodium lights are considered more efficient and will eventually mean lower monthly operating charges.

TransAlta will keep conversion costs to a minimum by scheduling the work at the same time as its relamping program, the company states in a letter to the town.

The town has agreed to pay for the conversion by maintaining the current lighting rate for the next 28 months, after which time the rate will be reduced to the more appropriate level.

The conversion will cost a total of $10,508, with estimated gross monthly savings of approximately $540 once the program is paid off.

Councilor Howard Olsen, an employee of TransAlta, excused himself from the council meeting to avoid the appearance of a conflict of interest.

Sewer mains

Smoke tests planned

A three-week smoke-testing program involving local sewer mains begins July 6.

Town Councillor Howard Olsen told last week's council meeting the smoke-testing is required because of "a problem with water infiltration into the sanitary sewer system."

The smoke should indicate where the water is originating from.

Olsen stressed the fact the smoke test doesn't constitute a health hazard, adding all residents in the testing areas will be notified at least 24 hours before the procedure begins.

Martindale and Associates has been signed on to perform the tests, which will occur between 8:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., weather permitting.

The contractor will also be required to provide updated information on the testing operation to the RCMP, the fire department and the health inspector.

Working the booth

Jodi Kynoch, a student at the University of Alberta studying elementary education, is now at work running the tourist booth on 50th Ave. The tourist booth will be expanding its hours of operation starting this month when high school student Valerie Soli begins full-time duties.

Trade fair booths filling

With less than three months to go, just over half of the booths available at the annual trade fair have been filled.

Chamber of commerce president Marty Prentice said most of the organizations that have already booked spots were previous exhibitors.

However, Prentice said he's heard that several groups will not be returning because they are either too busy or because the economy has made it too difficult to do so.

While there is really no deadline, Prentice noted that groups which reserve booths later than July will probably miss out on major advertisements detailing the exhibitors and entertainment.

The chamber is also seeking local groups interested in performing demonstrations or entertainment at the trade fair.

Prentice said groups will have the advantage of "basically a captive audience" and can use the stage and improved sound system free of charge.

Outside space is also available for those who wish to set up displays.

Prentice is confident this year's trade fair can at least equal the success of last year's, when roughly 5,000 people passed through the gates.

"Basically, the prices are the same. There will be door prizes and lots of draws."

The trade fair takes place at both the curling rink and the arena Sept. 11, 12, and 13.

Butt out...

All schools (excluding the grounds) within the Yellowhead school division will be smoke free starting in January.

Superintendent Klaus Puhlmann pointed out at a recent trustees meeting that implementation of a smoke free policy for schools is supported by most principals in the division.

A recent survey at the Harry Collinge high school in Edson conducted by the students council indicated 71.2 per cent of the students were in favor of closing the school's smoking room.

Thank You!

Bruce, Pat & Christopher Ennis would like to give a heartfelt thanks to the Tomahawk Fire Department for their speedy response and action to our trailer fire on June 17, 1987. Also to all our friends, family, the Community of Tomahawk and surrounding area for their help and donations of food, clothing, furniture and money after our fire.

Women's Institute

Resolutions passed for government consideration

The June meeting of the Drayton Valley Women's Institute was held at the home of Doreen Gustafson.

Winnie Hammerlindl attended the Provincial Women's Institute in Olds. At the conference these resolutions were passed:

More strict control of giving drugs to the elderly; banning of advertising of feminine hygenic products on television; more money for health care and less for recreation and cultural activities; more generous funding for research and education for handicapped farmers; return of funding for muscular dystrophy clinics; pensions be given to men or women 60-65 years of age, single, separated or divorced whose earnings are below the poverty line; protesting the closing of small rural post offices; children be taught about sexual abuse.

These resolutions will be forwarded to the government for consideration.

At the conference there were more than 600 articles entered in the handicraft. Several members from Drayton Valley WI entered winning firsts and seconds.

Many ways were given to use our money to aid the Country Women of World. The local branch voted to send money to WIN House in Edmonton, to AW I Girls Club and to the office fund, the birthday party to be held at the lodge July 15. Next month the branch will go on an outing to the Rimbey museum.

The program for the evening was an interesting account of the history of the postal service by Doreen Gustafson. This was followed with a quiz. Roll-call was to show a stamp from another country and tell a bit about the country.

Florence Romano reports all tables are booked for the Christmas Fair.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Francis Edmunds with agriculture as the theme.

New members are wanted and welcomed.

Grant scrapped

Seniors' devastation

The end of an Alberta grant program could be devastating for senior citizens and others who rely on the special subsidy for local transportation.

The town has received $14,498 from the Public Transportation Operating Assistance Grant Program -- a program that will not be offered next year.

This year's grant is based on a $3 per capita payment, minus a three per cent cutback in funding.

Town manager Manny Deol told council last week the loss of the program, which has been running for the past three years, will affect seniors and handicapped persons who depend on subsidized taxi service and other assistance grants.

Councillor Howard Olsen said while it's always possible there will be other grants to replace it, he suggested those concerned about the cutback should relay this message to local MLA Shirley Cripps.

"When this one ends, (they) should make sure there's something to take its place," he said.

Alberta's fly-in fishing hooks adventurers

Every season hundreds of anglers take an Alberta break to any one of the province's remote northern trophy lakes and get hooked - hooked on fly-in fishing.

The lure of outdoor adventure, spectacular fishing and southern hospitality at northern Alberta wilderness lodges has fishermen from around the world promising to return. Lodge guest books are filled with comments like, "I'll be back," or "I had a great third time," as anglers discover Alberta's vast north country is a fisherman's paradise.

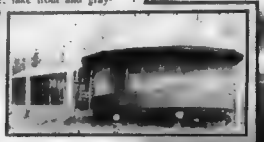
Northern pike, walleye, lake trout and grayling, pickerel and whitefish up to nine pounds, pike up to 40 pounds or more, or elusive lake trout exceeding 30 pounds - are caught along the scenic shorelines of lakes accessible only by small aircraft. From mid-May ice break-up until mid-October freeze up, fishing fantasies come true at lodges as close as an hour and a half from Edmonton.

Convenient transportation is available with air or highway service from Edmonton and from centres such as Peace River, Fort McMurray, Grande Prairie or High Level. Seasoned pilots of chartered float and land-based planes safely taxi hundreds of visitors each year to pristine lakes where a full spectrum of accommodation alternatives are offered - from the most rustic cabins and tent campsites to luxurious lodges.

Affordable packages

At one end of the fly-in fishing scale, rates for daily occupancy begin at about $65 per person while a week's all-inclusive vacation package at a full-service lodge (including air fare and food) can be as much as $900. However, it's not uncommon for these lodges to feature more affordable three-day, mid-week and weekend packages for slightly more than $400. Guests can expect unlimited use of boats, comfortable accommodation and facilities to freeze fish to take home. The days are long during the northern Alberta summer, so guests get added value for their vacation dollar by fishing into the wee hours of the morning.

Many of the lower-cost lodges like Jack Halvorson's Tapawingo Lodge on Bistcho Lake provide fishermen with boat and lodging, but require visitors to bring groceries, a sleeping bag and fishing gear. Full-service lodges like Margaret Lake still have wilderness on the doorstep but the country-club setting offers more than the comforts of home with hearty home-cooked meals, a fully-licensed lounge, a pool table, shuffleboard, sauna, jacuzzi and gear for rent or sale. Hosts Ted and Mary McTaggart can even accommodate large groups for conventions or business meetings in the lodge's large conference room.



Centre: Lake trout fishing at Margaret Lake. Clockwise (top right): the luxurious Margaret Lake Lodge; friendly Tapawingo Lodge host Jack Halvorson; writer Pat Bell and a Bistcho Lake northern pike; the Peace Air float plane; and the Tapawingo lake barbecue gazebo with one of the comfortable cabins in the background.

Whatever the accommodation preference, these Alberta fishing lodges are introducing guests to a unique adventure and sending them home with fond memories of excellent fishing and comradeship. Unlike the weather, a constant at any of these fly-in fishing lodges is warm hospitality extended by friendly hosts. These are some of the province's hardiest sportsmen who can thrill visitors with fascinating tales of fishing, flying and what it takes to establish comfortable fly-in fishing lodges in Alberta's rugged wilderness.

Once upon a time, up north, the tales were so wild ...

An aluminum fishing boat breaks free and dangles on a rope beneath a bush plane buzzing over remote northern Alberta. Unable to land, the pilot ties a rope around his passenger who crawls out on the ski and cuts the boat loose.

This is the stuff legends are made of, tales carved out of the rugged wilderness, told and retold over a cup of coffee at one of Alberta's fly-in fishing lodges.

How about the time the bear came into camp ... sorry, you've heard that one already. Well, this was a different bear ... see that garbage can with the bullet hole through it, those are his teeth marks in the lid.

Just the other day the dog was swimming in the lake a fish was chasing his tail and ...

Tales of adventure

It was the introduction to narratives like this that made a recent familiarization tour into Alberta's north country so enjoyable. If a guy can resist serving his own memoirs - rehashed and colored-enhanced so many times it takes his wife a while to recognize them - he can hear engrossing tales as breathtaking as the experience of fly-in fishing.

Don't let anyone tell you there's 20-pound fish for every cast, though. There's plenty of hatchet-handle-sized jackfish to keep you entertained, but even at these northern lakes there can be long spells between rich fishing holes. City-boy Don Smithson, my Travel Alberta host, was no slouch at story-telling into the wee hours of the morning, and he managed during the day to keep me awake between strikes.

Back at camp Don had to keep pace with well-seasoned flyers and the hardy sportsmen who make fly in fishing their livelihood. Despite the serenity of their surroundings, they have death-defying monologues.

Weather plays a big role in survival stories where a man can go for days on a food supply of pickerel and porridge. The weather socks in and you sit, fish and then sit some more. There's little to do but listen to another yarn and wait for the welcome drone of an approaching plane that will carry you back to civilization.

Aborted take-off

The morning I was to leave Bistcho Lake and Tapawingo Lodge it snowed, so it was the next day before Pilot Terry Hall landed the dual-wheeled Islander. With heavy gumbo turning footwear into the size of miniature snowshoes, my fishing buddies walked the runway while I bumper-rode the trailer carrying the luggage - a ride that would rival West Edmonton Mall's Mindbender roller-coaster.

Once the plane was turned around using the tractor, five of us crawled in, nervously joking about whether we'd get off the ground. Somehow we knew it wouldn't be the last we'd see of host Jack Halvorson and his Black Lab companion Mickey.

With a roar and a prayer the plane started to roll but when it reached a low spot, the wheels clogged with mud and it swerved toward the edge of the runway before the pilot gradually shut it down.

From there it was back to camp for breakfast and six more hours of stories before a float plane arrived.

After three days of listening to myself, I refused to relate a Leduc original, as told by the same man who overhauled the first space shuttle: there was this camp up north where the polar bears were a problem so this guy mined some meat with dynamite and placed the chunks around the enclosure. All night long there were explosions. The next morning, pieces of bear were everywhere. The only way they could total the kill was to count the feet.

And how about the time

Little visitors

Three newborn chipmunks were found recently by Mickey and Fran Hallam of Carnwood. It's believed the chipmunks climbed inside the Hallam's motorhome and weren't discovered until they stopped at Sylvan Lake. They were fed milk through an eye dropper.

Writer/mother has no time for ulcers

I just came from the doctor's office.

That's not as ominous as it sounds for I'm a frequent visitor there because of the kids. Actually, if they offered a frequent flyer program for doctors' visits rather than airplane tickets, I'm sure I would have won at least a week's free, all expenses paid, stay in the hospital by now. But that's a whole different story.

This time the visit was for me. The doctor said I have an ulcer. That is the most ridiculous thing I've heard all week.

Not only do I not have time for an ulcer, there's a hundred reasons why it just couldn't be so in my case.

His saying that though made me sit back and think a bit on what's been going on in my life. An ulcer? Imagine!

However...let's see. Kids. Well, if anything can give you an ulcer, kids can. But mine aren't like that really.

Putting toothpaste through my screens and trying to teach me the correct procedure for fire drills while I'm starting the fireplace are just normal kids' antics. And the day Ryan sprayed Lily of the Valley perfume in Rebeca's eye, he didn't really mean it. Her eye was fine after we washed it. The house did smell peculiar for a few days but we went out for supper a lot that week. Nothing too serious. So that leaves out blaming the kids.

How about work?

Well, the last six months I've had three jobs. I don't exactly win the length-of-stay award but at least I can claim a good variety in interests and experiences. The job I hold now is where the changing ends. I just hope my second day is as good as the first. The people are real nice and I like it here. So it can't be my work that's giving me an ulcer.

How about my social life?

Being relatively new to Drayton Valley I figured a good way to meet people in this community would be to help with this year's census. I was right; I get to meet and interview about 1,000 people — by July 1. So you can see my social life certainly isn't lacking.

The last thing to consider is my home life. There really is no problem here, my home life is great. One little catch...we need to find a home. Presently we're renting a house that has been put up for sale. We've been given our notice for July 1. That still gives me time to find something else. Something will come up, I'm sure. In the meantime, it gives me some time to get everything packed.

My idea of a person who gets ulcers is someone well over 50. There is no basis for this assumption, I just think before then is too early. I'm not even 29 and holding yet, so it's definitely too early for me.

It seems to me that a critical characteristic of someone who has an ulcer is that they keep all their feelings and problems to themselves, bottled up inside. What you wouldn't call the talkative type.

Do I have this problem? I hardly think so. I'm fairly outgoing. I feel comfortable enough sharing concerns and feelings with my friends and neighbors. Heck, sometimes I even write about them in the paper!

So the doctor says I have an ulcer. Personally, I think he is wrong — I probably have five!

Lloyd Ellis, who farms northwest of Breton, shows off two long stalks of rhubarb, measuring three feet long and weighing about 2.15 pounds. Ellis, who has a 75-foot long rhubarb patch, says the old record was one pound 13 ounces.

Accuracy is a must on application forms

By Tracey Vetter, manager
Hire A Student

The application form is the first piece of work that an employer will see. Be sure it is neat, accurate and complete.

Position applied for: always use position's proper title (service station attendant, not gas jockey).

Competition number: often used by large companies and governments to distinguish between various job openings. To find out if there is a competition number, ask the employer or refer to the job advertisement. If there is not one, print N/A (not applicable).

Preferred location: your preference for work in a specific community or region.

How did you learn about the job?: indicate the specific source (advertisements, personal contacts). Employers use this information to make their future advertising more effective.

Name: give proper name in requested order. If everyone calls you by a nickname, put it in brackets.

Type of employment: specify full-time work continuing over an indefinite period of time, part-time less than 35 hours per week, temporary regular hours worked for a specific period of time, or seasonal work recurring according to the season.

Mailing address: complete your mailing address, include your postal code.

Permanent home address: if different from your mailing address, this is usually the address of our parents or guardian. If they are the same, put the information down again.

Telephone: copy your residence and message number from your personal fact sheet.

Date available for employment: indicate the specific day, month, and year you will be able to work. Words such as "immediately" or "right away" are misleading. Assist the employer by providing exact information.

Desired salary: if possible, find out the starting wage of the position. Otherwise write in "negotiable." This protects you from both under and overestimating your potential wage.

Employment history: list past employers, company names and addresses, length of time employed, the name of your supervisor, and your reason for leaving. Begin with the most recent job and work backwards.

References: past employers or teachers are your best choice. Don't forget to consult your references before using their names. Someone who can make honest comments about your work habits may be a better reference than someone who can only say that you are "wonderful."

General information: use your personal fact sheet to list all activities and experience which relate to the job for which you are applying.

Declaration: to validate your information, don't forget to sign and date the application form.

Additional tips: never leave blank spaces, print N/A in spaces that do not apply to you. Use blue or black ink, and check and recheck your completed application for neatness, correct spelling and accuracy.

Local sentenced

A Drayton Valley man has been sentenced to 90 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to charges of dangerous driving, assault, and two counts of mischief to private property.

Terence Richard Martin appeared in Drayton Valley Provincial Court last week.

The charges stemmed from a series of incidents that began at the Greenwood Trailer Court early in the morning of April 3.

Cst. Richard Raymond who, along with Cst. Greg Fedor, investigated the incident, said the detachment received a frantic phone call from someone at the trailer court just after midnight.

The line, however, went dead before any information could be obtained. The RCMP were able to trace the phone call and arrived at the scene.

The officers arrived in time to see the accused ramming a pick-up truck parked at the trailer with his own vehicle, Raymond said.

Martin then sped away with the RCMP in pursuit.

Going down 50th Street at roughly 85 kmh, Martin slammed on his brakes in front of the Westwind Hotel, causing the RCMP cruiser to swerve into the northbound lane to avoid a collision.

Raymond said Martin then drove his vehicle directly into the cruiser and drove away.

The accused eventually ended up in a ditch suffering from chest injuries and cuts.

The cruiser sustained $880 in damage to its front end. Martin's vehicle was totalled, Raymond noted.

The other charges laid against Martin involved an assault against one of the trailer's occupants and damage caused to several of the trailer's furnishings.

UIC claimants to pick up cheques

Employment and Immigration Canadan announced the following steps should be taken by unemployment insurance claimants served by the four Edmonton Canada Employment Centres (CECs) during the present postal disruption.

During this time claimants will be asked to pick up their benefit cheques at the following location: The Golden Garter Casino, Edmonton Northlands, 79 Street and 115 Avenue.

The distribution centre will operate Monday to Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Line ups and delays can be anticipated especially for the first few days.

Two pieces of identification will be required such as a social insurance number card and one other bearing either a photograph or a signature.

Persons receiving illness or maternity benefits can have their cheques picked up but must provide written authorization. The person picking up the cheque must then provide the two pieces of identification.

In addition, all Edmonton CEC clients expecting training allowance cheques must also pick up their cheques in person at the distribution centre.

Claimants should also ensure their UI report cards are dropped off at the distribution centre during their visit or at their local CEC to avoid line-up delays.

Communities served by the Edmonton Canada Employment Centres include Drayton Valley, Vegreville, Westlock, Barrhead and Mayerthorpe. Those residents outside of the Edmonton area should listen to their local radio station or consult the advertisements in their local weekly newspaper for information on where to pick up their benefit cheque

Hinton mill expansion to ensure continued success

Alberta Minister of Forestry, Lands and Wildlife, Don Sparrow, has announced provincial government approval of the Champion Forest Products Ltd. pulpmill expansion project at Hinton.

Sparrow stated, "Champion has a proven track record in the forest industry and this project will increase the economic base of Hinton. The construction phase will provide 1,140 person years of employment, and about 370 new permanent jobs upon completion. These new jobs will generate another $1.5 million per month for the Hinton and Edson economies."

When the expansion project is completed in 1989, the pulpmill capacity will double to 424,000 short tons (384,650 metric tonnes) per year. The completed mill will have a replacement value of about $800 million.

The total cost of the Hinton pulpmill expansion and related work is about $300 million. Project expenditure will be funded from internal cash flow by Champion Forest Products Ltd. until borrowing is required. Up to $225 million will be borrowed by the company from a major lender. The provincial government has agreed to guarantee the company's loan for a fee. This allows the company to borrow at a lower interest rate, lowers operating costs and keeps it competitive in the market place. It also assists the company in meeting Alberta's high environmental and forest management standards. Environmental standards to be achieved in the modernized mill will place it among the cleanest bleached kraft pulpmills in Canada.

Champion mill has proven track record in the forest industry.

The president of the Champion Forest Products Ltd., Ken Hall said, "The increased capacity and use of latest technology in this modernization and expansion project will ensure the continued success of our operation as a producer of quality products on a cost-competitive basis. We are pleased to be able to undertake this expansion at this time and certainly appreciate the support from the community of Hinton and the Alberta government to get the project underway."

Ian Reid, MLA (West Yellowhead) said, "Champion Forest Products is the main employer in the region. They have demonstrated their long-term support of the area through the development of recreation and tourism facilities at a rate of about $80 thousand a year and have been first class corporate citizens for 30 years."

Sparrow added, "Forestry is Canada's number one industry. Our government recognizes forestry as a cornerstone to our drive for economic diversification. This new mill modernization coupled with other announcements in the forest industry in the past two years are evidence of this commitment."

Price protection plan extended

Agriculture Minister Peter Elzinga has announced a one-year extension for the Alberta Farm Fertilizer Price Protection Plan.

The extension of this program, the only one of its kind in Canada, is estimated to be worth $20 million to Alberta farmers over the next 12 months.

Elzina stated, "Like the two billion dollar Farm Credit Stability Program and the Farm Fuel Distribution Allowance, the Farm Fertilizer Price Protection Plan contributes significantly toward countering the continued stress on farm incomes."

Under the plan, first announced in 1985, over 60,000 claims have been paid amounting to more than $39 million for purchases of over 1.7 million tonnes of fertilizer. With the extension, Alberta farmers will have until July 31, 1988 to buy and use eligible fertilizer on their fields, and until Jan. 31, 1989 to pay for the fertilizer and to submit a claim to the program. Anyone who has not yet claimed under the program, may submit a claim for fertilizer purchased and used since Aug. 1, 1984.

The minister said the province will also continue to support the concept of tripartite stabilization agreements, such as the one recently signed with Alberta's sugar beet growers thereby providing a strong safety net in maintaining producers' incomes.

Elzinga also indicated he will soon be announcing the make-up of the board which will conduct the business and affairs of the newly-created Alberta Agriculture Research Institute. The institute has been established to coordinate, promote and support research in agriculture.

The minister said he will also be moving quickly to appoint members to the Appeal Tribunal which is called for in the new Marketing of Agricultural Products Act (Bill 20). The tribunal will hear appeals of decisions made by boards or commissions which operate under the act.

Elzinga concluded that, "the province is committed to support for our primary producers and in partnership with producer groups, boards and commissions will continue to assist with programs and legislation affecting the agriculture community."

Summer shouldn't be boring

By Chris Staples

"I'm bored. There's nothing to do."

By mid-July, most parents have had their fill of this familiar refrain.

As much as children look forward to their summer holidays, the fact remains the seemingly endless string of empty summer days can soon become tedious for your child — and trying for you.

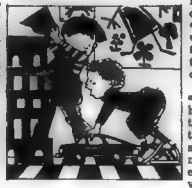
Summer doesn't have to be boring. In fact, the summer months offer plenty of interesting learning opportunities for your child. With a little help and support, you can make sure the learning process doesn't end just because the school year has.

Structured summertime activities can help reinforce the skills and concepts taught in school during the year. Here are some examples you might want to try with your child.

• Help your children design a weather chart. Mark down each day's high and low temperatures. Compare them with the record temperatures for each date.

• Help develop your child's green thumb. Hand over responsibility for weeding and watering a small section of the family garden. At harvest time, help your child prepare the vegetables for the rest of the family.

• Create math problems out of everyday situations — a shopping trip or a trip to the lake. If it takes one hour to travel 100 km, how long will it take to drive 800 km?



• Choose a word of the day. Help your child pick a new word from the dictionary. Then use it in normal conversation. Help find words that mean the same and the opposite.

• If your children are comic book fans, help them create their own cartoons. Show them how to make up a comic-sized booklet of blank pages to fill with their own characters.

• Encourage your child to start or expand a collection of feathers, flowers, rocks, stamps or anything our child finds interesting. Discuss how to best organize and classify the collected objects.

• Involve your children in the vacation planning process. Go through maps and brochures together, picking out points of interest.

• Discover your own hometown. When was the last time you went on an outing to the local library, museum or art gallery? Bring along a picnic lunch and turn a simple excursion into a mini-vacation.

Variety is the key word. Expose your child to a wide range of activities and something's bound to click. Once children become genuinely interested in something, there's no stopping them. That's the secret of learning — summer and winter, 12 months a year.

Easyford 4-H awards

The Easyford 4-H Frontier Club held their achievement day at a weekend campout June 6 and 7.

The following members received awards for completing their Outdoorsman Unit I requirements: Cindy Badry, Caren Badry, Kelsey Bannard, Travis Carlson, Shawna Coward, Monique Hartley, Daniel Hartley, Dustin Hartley, Erika Mueller, Jason Mueller, Kim Torvinen and Lisa Vowk.

Thank you to all the parents and family members for their time donated throughout the year. Special thanks to our judge, Wayne Fertig and family and to Rick's Sporting Goods for their assistance in supplying the 1987 awards.

To all those going to 4-H camp, congratulations. Also, good luck to the two 4-H members going to Ontario for the Open House Canada 4-H exchange program.

In the world of family relations, three other words are almost as powerful as the famous "I love you." They are "Maybe you're right."

Winfield's new park

The Winfield Local Improvement Society have officially turned the sod for a new park recently. Participating in the event, (left to right), Martha Hanson representing the seniors, Sterling Graham of the chamber, Axel Hanson (also representing the seniors), Delores West with the plans and Norm Ewan of the Legion.

Parents state priorities

Parents of students at Stony Plain elementary school have given the County of Parkland Board of Education a clear indication of their spending priorities.

For the most part, they want education services maintained at their present levels and the money to pay for those services to come from the provincial government.

While the survey results provide valuable input, they don't address the burning question plaguing the local school board. Trustee Maurice McCullagh pointed out.

"We can't get the money from the province," he said. "They're the ones that took it away from us."

Marie Anstey, vice president of the school's Parent Advisory Group, and Phil Pardo, the group's secretary, presented a summary at the board's education committee meeting of an extensive questionnaire returned by 155 parents.

Over half the respondents said funding for programs covering human sexuality, the integration of special education students, busing, French language instruction, remedial room services and speech therapy should come out of the basic education budget.

Over 70 per cent of the respondents indicated art supplies, language arts workbooks, library supplies and audio visual suplies should be maintained rather than reduced.

Over half the parents said extra curricular activities such as Hi Q, the ski club, participation in town sponsored events, the science fair, Christmas program and lunch time skating should continue to be offered. Most of the parents who responded in this manner said they'd be willing to pay for these activities.

A whopping 86.4 per cent of the parents who returned the questionnaire want the school's teaching staff maintained at its present levels.

Over 77 per cent said they don't want to see teacher salaries increased but the same number also don't think the salaries should be decreased.

Growth, personal development in volunteer services

By Leah Dick
Regional 4-H summer assistant

The teenage years are often a time when young people feel left out and alienated from the world.

If they cannot find meaningful roles in the adult society, they develop other roles that can be damaging to themselves and their community. This is where the 4-H Community Services Project can make a big difference. By offering young people meaningful roles that are rewarded by their community, the 4-H program starts the youngster off on the right foot.

The appearance of your community has a large effect on the way people feel about where they live and can have a big impact on the opinions of tourists. So why not start a community beautification project? Such a project could involve picking up litter around schools, churches, hospitals, or the local fairground. Volunteers can also repair and paint bleachers, help build fences and showrings for fairdays or even make and post up signs welcoming visitors to your community. This type of volunteer work will do the most for you in gaining the gratitude and good will of your community because the results are so easily noticed.

Community functions are another area where volunteers are welcome as there are always odd jobs to be done and 4-Hers can provide very valuable services by volunteering. Often members volunteer their talent to provide entertainment at public functions. Whether it be putting on a skit or singing songs, your services are greatly appreciated.

You can provide a valuable service to the community and yourself by sponsoring educational programs. Do your part in your community to schedule awareness days so the various activities and youth groups in your area become known. Displays at local fairs or rodeos are another way to get everyone involved. Keeping your display interesting and fun adds in every way to the success of the day.

Through these services to others, volunteer 4-H members gain a unique opportunity for growth and personal development. They get a chance to interact with different kinds of people in their community; the elderly and the young, the rich and the poor, and the talented and the handicapped. They gain a sense of community, of belonging but most importantly, they have now made themselves a part of what's going on in their community.

The replacement pump may be identified by a specific date code on the nameplate (06 87 or later) which indicates the date of new manufacture by month and year.

If the shoe fits...

Prior to competing in the recent Lindale rodeo, Richard Nelson of Buck Lake took time out to shoe this horse. Nelson says the extra money helps to pay his rodeo fees.

Congrats to grads extended

Good intentions certainly don't write an MLA report.

If there were a few more hours in a day it might be just a little easier. I'm at the legislature by 7:15 every morning and rarely get home before 11 p.m. With time commitments of meetings and the session, the MLA reports have been sorely neglected.

From the speech to the throne through budget and estimates the commitment has been to reduce spending and lessen the budget deficit. Since 80 per cent of the budget is transfer payments to other jurisdictions, i.e., hospitals, education, municipalities, the reduction in that area was three per cent. Some of the other departments had to take major cuts in order to meet our commitment to reduce spending. The real effect of the budget will only now become visible with increased taxes in June and July.

The ministers of Education and Advanced Education have been committed to working with school boards and universities to ensure they obtain the best educational results for every educational dollar spent.

A great concern of the government and myself as a member is the continued integrity of the health care system. Albertans are very proud of their excellent health care system, and rightly so. If we want to ensure continuance of the best health care system in the world, we must ensure it is affordable for future generations.

The number one concern of the government and of all Albertans is employment. Certainly every new business and diversification means more job opportunities. The critical area seems to be people coming into the job market for the first time and those over 45 years, who are, in many cases, very highly skilled.

June is 4-H Achievement Month. I want to congratulate all 4-Hers on their participation in this excellent program. I am always so impressed with the exceptional work done by 4-Hers.

June is also graduation month. Graduation is a milestone and we all take pride in your achievement. To all those young people who have achieved this special goal — congratulations!

I join in wishing Rev. Aldrich all the best and in saying thank you for your contribution to the Drayton Valley community.

Congratulations to the Maywood School Preservation Society on celebrating and dedication of Maywood School at the 65th reunion June 6.

Mulhurst should also be congratulated on the April 11 opening of their new Mulhurst Community Centre.

I can be reached through my Edmonton office during the week at 422-9156 (call toll-free through Zenith 22333). My Drayton Valley constituency office is open on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays; the number there is 542-3355. My residence number is 682-3758.

SERVING ALBERTA & N.W.T. FOR 19 YEARS

If your car could talk...

On July 1, the law in Alberta will require all motor vehicle drivers and passengers to wear seatbelts. All drivers are responsible to ensure that any passengers under age 16 are wearing seatbelts or are secured in child/infant safety seats.

If you are a driver or a passenger over 16 years of age, YOU are responsible for wearing your seatbelt. Any individual found guilty of violating the law is subject to a $25.00 fine.

Wearing seatbelts saves lives and reduces injuries. It's that simple. Do seatbelts and child/infant safety seats give everyone a better chance? You bet your life!

If you would like more information about Alberta's seatbelt legislation, please call our toll-free information line:
